

LAW ENFORCEMENT TRACK

Genesis House believes that as a professional in uniform you have probably witnessed your share of disasters, life threatening situations, and human tragedy. These events can take their toll on even the most seasoned police officers. There may come a time when coping with these stressors become too much. Many times officers resort to alcohol or drug use to deal with these feelings such as, depression, trauma, PTSD, anxiety, family issues and marital problems. All men and women in uniform are at risk for this type of life problem. Here are some of the warning signs:

You feel exhausted and on edge

You are frequently full of anxiety and don't know why

You are abusing alcohol and or prescription medication

You are isolating yourself from family and friends

You keep replaying a particular event over in your mind

Your sleep pattern and eating habits have changed

Treatment, Education, and Support: At Genesis, you will work exclusively with a therapist who understands the issues that police officers face on the job. Treatment is located in our beautiful South Florida facility where several of our therapists are retired police officers. Education lectures, group and individual counseling are vital to the healing process and part of the daily regimen at Genesis. You'll do it with the support, understanding, and expertise of others who have "been there".
